DOUBLE RECEPTION

At Third Street M. E. Church to Pastor Bunton and "Bishop"
Lane and Bride

A large crowd attended the reception last evening given by the Ladies' Aid Society and Epworth League of the Third Street M. E.
Church, although a great many were prevented from attending on account of inclement weather.

The reception was in honor of their returned Pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. Bunton, and Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Lane, lately returned from their honeymoon.

The parlors of the Church were nicely decorated with goldenrod, ferns and many beautiful cut flowers, and made a beautiful appearance.
Added to this was the splendid music by Prof.
Bailey's orchestra which made the occasion a very pleasant one.

After the guests had extended welcome greetings and congratulations to the guests of honor, Mr. Richardson called for order and introduced Prof. D. S. Clinger, who, in a neat little speech welcomed Rev. Bunton and his wife back for another year and extended heartiest congratulations to Mr. Lane and his bride.
Rev. Bunton, Mr. Lane and Mrs. Bunton each responded in well-chosen words expressive of their appreciation of their hearty and cordial welcome extended to them.

Refreshments were now in order and in true
Methodist style they were partaken of by all,

IF there is any lethargy anywhere in Kentucky, it is not indicated by the registration figures. Kentucky is surely awake.—Louisville Post.

THIS little straw shows how the political wind is blowing for the Democrats and is taken from a Louisville dispatch to The Enquirer:

"The whole attitude of the entire city administration is, according to Democratic politicians, unfriendly and hostile, not only to the Democrats in Louisville, but to the Democratic state ticket."

WHEN the cause of the prevailing high prices is discussed there is in some quarters but one cry, "The tariff, the robber tariff." Those who raise this cry do not stop to think that prices depend not on tariffs alone, but on a variety of other causes, some of which are undoubtedly now operating.

SUFFICIENT cause for congratulations. A Washington dispatch says: Mrs. RICHARD B. CHEW of this city is being congratulated by many friends in Kentucky and elsewhere upon the fact that she is the only heir here to the $90,000,000 estate of the late Baron SPRINGER. Mrs. CHEW is a Kentucky woman; her sister also lives here, and her mother, Mrs. W. W. BRUCE, of Lexington.

ALL AT A JUMP.

"You are eternally kicking. I'll bet if you had the world to make over you couldn't improve it a bit."

"Yes I could."

"What would be the first thing you would do?"

"Well, for a starter, instead of two weeks vacation and the rest work I would make two weeks work and the rest of the year vacation."

"Is that the best you could do?"

"Wouldn't that be good enough?"

"All but the two weeks work."

There were two additions to the Third Street M. E. Church Sunday.

EXPENSIVE EXPERIENCE

Cities Get Rid of Their Lighting Plants at a Loss to Save Themselves From Greater Loss.

The mayor of English, Ind., writes that the municipal electric light plant was sold for 35 per cent of its cost "because of the financial loss to the city." As it had been operated only five years, this makes the depreciation 13 per cent a year.

The municipal light and water plants of England, Ark., have been leased to G. W. Morris for six years. The reason assigned for this action is "gross mismanagement."

Although the qualified voters of Valley City, N. D., at an election called for the purpose, voted by a majority of nearly three to one to sell the electric light plant, the city council by a vote of four to three has decided not to sell, but instead to spend $12,000 on new machinery. Apparently the plant is too valuable a political asset to be surrendered at the mere call of the taxpayers, twice repeated.

The president of the village of Millford Center, O., writes that the municipal electric light and water plants were sold for $5,335. The latest report available gives the amount of bonds outstanding as $12,000.

Prior to its lease ten months ago the electric light plant of Linton, Ind., was badly run down and was costing the city from $200 to $500 a month owing to incompetent management. It is already on a paying basis, and the fine service furnished by it is in marked contrast to what was supplied when it was operated by the city.

The municipal electric light plant of Gravesend, N. Y., constructed at a cost of approximately $120,000, was never put into operation and was sold for $31,100 after the annexation of Gravesend to Brooklyn.

The electric light plant bought by the city council of Carrollton, Ga., was operated only a few months on account of the protests of the citizens and was turned over to the former owners.

In 1901 the city of Dunkirk, Ind., purchased the electric light plant, assuming the bonded indebtedness of $23,500. As it was not paying its way the city effected a compromise with the bondholders, to whom the plant was turned over, the city making a cash payment of $2,300. The mayor writes that the sale was due to "political changes in control."

A municipal electric light plant was installed by Ellwood City, Pa., in 1901 at a cost of $15,000. By 1904 it had become inadequate to carry its load, so the generating plant was shut down and has stood idle ever since, power being supplied by a private company.

An electrical engineer who devoted some weeks to rehabilitating it writes that the municipal electric light plant of Montpelier, Ind., was a complete failure and that it was turned over to the present owners for a dollar on condition that they would assume the outstanding bonds ($35,000). The city got nothing for the funds contributed by the citizens to make repairs. Another authority states that for three months before the sale there had been no street lights available and for part of that period no incandescent lights.

A CHEAP LESSON.

New York Abandons Its Experiment In Municipality Lighting.

About two years ago the city of New York installed at a cost of $122,348 a combined garbage incinerator and electric light plant, the current developed being used to light the Williamsburg bridge. The intention was to effect a saving over the cost of lighting the bridge by contract, and after the plant had been in operation six months Commissioner Woodbury estimated that the saving amounted to about 40 per cent.

It was therefore somewhat of a surprise to those who were not aware of the real facts to learn that the lighting plant had been shut down. The engineers in charge frankly admit that the plant has been run at a loss, and although they are chary about giving figures, the best information obtainable is to the effect that the loss amounted to about $25,000 a year as compared with the cost by contract. In other words, it cost the city with free fuel about twice as much to light the bridge as a private company charges, although the company has to buy its fuel.

It is fortunate for New York that it made its electric lighting experiment on a small scale, for if it had undertaken to do all its public lighting and had sustained a proportionate loss the effect on the tax rate (and indirectly on rents) would have been such as to make the M. O. advocates move to some locality where their theory had not become a condition. As it is the lesson will be cheap at the price—if it has been really learned.

Government Telegraph Losses. The detailed financial statement for the postoffice telegraphs, issued on Tuesday, shows that for the third year in succession the loss sustained by the nation on the service has amounted to more than a million pounds.

The receipts for the year were the largest ever known, reaching a total of $4,151,376.

A review covering thirty-seven years is included in the return, and shows that the total loss on the service during that period has amounted to £14,271,827.

About eight millions of this loss is accounted for by capital expenditure, but the remaining six and a half millions is dead loss on the working of the service.—London Telegraph.

The Fire Committee was instructed to procure three lanterns for Amazon Fire Company. The matter of 500 feet of hose for the Washington Fire Company was referred to Committee.

Nothing further Council adjourned.

READ THIS AND PROFIT THEREBY!

This is a trying time of the year. Many discomforts arise from the heat. The best way to be comfortable is by bathing often, at least twice daily and by using a liberal quantity of talcum powder. Bathing often one keeps the skin clean and the pores open, thereby allowing the entire body to "breathe freely," which means perfect health.

The best soap to use for the bath and toilet is Picard's Complexion Soap, a non-injurious, healthful soap.

Talcum powder keeps the skin cool, allays heat rash, stops chafing and is an excellent toilet requisite. We have a number of kinds.

KILLED IN INDIANA

A Former Fleming County Man Crushed Under Wheels of Train

Yesterday was County Court Day and a fair crowd was in town. There was not much stock exposed for sale in the trading and selling ring in Limestone street, but at that it was of a better class than on former occasions, particularly the suckling mule colts. The rain in the afternoon dispersed the crowd and the amount of business transacted in the horse and mule market was not as large as it otherwise would have been.

In the last will and testament of Mrs. Anna N. Richardson, deceased, she bequeaths thirty shares of stock in the First National Bank of Maysville, to her two grandchildren, John Dudley Keith and Thomas A. Keith, Jr., to be divided equally between them. The balance of her estate, both real and personal, including money, notes, bonds, stocks and household and kitchen furniture, she bequeaths to her daughter, Anna Dudley Keith, in fee simple forever, to use and do with as she pleases. The will is dated January 29th, 1903, and is witnessed by E. P. Browning and W. W. Ball.

Yesterday morning about 9:30 o'clock the venerable E. B. Powell was talking to T. T. Worthington of the county in front of the Farmers' and Traders' Bank, when he fainted and would have fallen to the pavement had it not have been for Mr. Worthington who caught him in his arms. He was assisted in the bank where he remained until he recovered sufficiently to take a car for his home in the East End. A few minutes before he was taken ill he was speaking to Mr. Worthington about not feeling well and of having taken medicine for his ailment. Mr. Powell is one of Maysville's oldest and best known business men.

Captain John L. Vance's Tribute to the Majestic Ohio.

Captain John L. Vance of Columbus, O., President of the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, in his speech before the Lakes-to-the-Gulf Waterway's Convention at Memphis Saturday, paid the following tribute to the Ohio river:

"Our interest in your great enterprise is demonstrated when you look over this assemblage and see delegations composed of prominent men from Pittsburgh, the manufacturing center of the world; from Cincinnati, Louisville, Evansville, Cario and from other and important points in Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana and Illinois—all active workers in the Ohio Valley Improvement Association, and all desirous of aiding in the work this Convention is called to advance."

"The Ohio asks your help—you must have ours; and I am here today receiving and extending the right hand of fellowship not only to the Lakes-to-the-Gulf project, but to all waterways susceptible of improvement, not judging their merit by the tonnage of today, but by the tonnage they would be capable of bearing if improved."

Last evening about 6:30, in rounding the sharp curve at the corner of Third and Bridge streets, Motorman Gill was not as mindful as he should have been and forged ahead with a full head of electrical steam, and in doing so he whisks Conductor Henry Otto—who was taking fares at the time—over the head of a passenger on through a plate glass in the front of the car with a force as though he had been shot out of a cannon. Strange to say the only damage was the broken glass, Henry was not scathed a particle, though he did use a few German expressions not incorporated in the Bible.
